The channel between the old and new Bahia Honda bridges is one of the deepest natural channels in the Florida Keys.

Bahia Honda is unique among other islands in the Keys because it has extensive sandy beaches and deep waters close enough offshore to provide exceptional swimming and snorkeling.

The park, which encompasses 524 acres, includes one small island offshore on the southwest end of the park. The subtropical climate throughout the Florida Keys has created a natural environment found nowhere else in the continental U.S. Many plants and animals in the park are rare and unusual, including marine plant and animal species of Caribbean origin. Trees in the community include the yellow satinwood, gumbo limbo, and silver palm. The park has one of the largest remaining stands of the threatened silver palms in the United States. A specimen of the silver palm and yellow satinwood have been certified as national champion trees. Also found on the park grounds is the endangered small-flowered lily thorn. These, and other natural wonders, may be viewed along the nature trail that follows the shore of a tidal lagoon at the far end of Sandspur Beach.

The geological formation of Bahia Honda is Key Largo limestone. It is derived from a prehistoric coral reef similar to the present day living reefs of the Keys. Because of a drop in sea level several thousand years ago, portions of this ancient reef emerged from the sea, forming islands. Bahia Honda is the southernmost key where the formation is exposed.

In more modern times, the park was part of Henry Flagler's East Coast Railway holdings. The railroad to Key West was started in 1905 and was jokingly referred to as "Flagler's Folly". It was eventually completed in 1912 but later destroyed by a hurricane in 1935. The railroad remains were converted into what is known today as U.S. Highway 1. Presently, the Old Bahia Honda Bridge serves as a reminder of Flagler's dream. The bridge offers visitors a panoramic view of the island and surrounding waters.

Since the initial purchase of the first 13 acres of the park in 1961, Bahia Honda has become well-known as a recreational treasure in the Keys.

Visitor Information

Boating: Boaters should always exercise caution in shallow reef areas and when approaching any area where there are Diver Down flags, moored boats or swimmers. Never anchor in coral. Always obtain a navigation chart for open water. Two boat launching ramps are available at the marina. Overnight docking rental is available, with stays limited to two weeks.

Camping: For landlovers, there are three camping areas, with a total of 80 campsites. A dump station is provided.

Lodging: Three duplex cabins (6 units) are furnished with accommodations for 6 people per cabin. Linens and utensils are provided. For camping and cabin reservations 1-800-326-3521 or www.reserveamerica.com.

Kayaking: Safe and stable sit-on-top Ocean Kayaks are available for rent at the concession. They provide a quiet, relaxing way to explore the waters around the park.

Concession: Snacks, T-shirts, souvenirs and snorkeling equipment rentals may be obtained at the concession. Limited grocery and marine supplies are also available. Tickets for the snorkel boat tours may also be purchased at the concession.

Snorkeling: Daily snorkel trips to Looe Key National Marine Sanctuary are available through the concession. These tours provide an excellent way to observe and enjoy the beautiful coral reefs of the Florida Keys. Please remember - while snorkeling or diving outside a designated swimming area, the Diver Down flag must be displayed. It is unlawful to touch, stand on or collect coral. Never swim alone.

Bicycling: Cruise the park's more than 3 1/2 mile surface road that runs the length of Bahia Honda Key.

Fishing: Tarpon fishing in the area rates among the best in the state. Saltwater fishing licenses are required in Florida. All fishing within the park must conform to the regulations concerning size, number, method of capture and season. Spearfishing, possession of spearfishing equipment and collection of tropical fish (by any method) is prohibited inside the park.

Swimming: For water buffs, Bahia Honda has some of the best beaches in the Florida Keys, with swimming in the Atlantic Ocean and Florida Bay.

Picnicking: Shaded picnic tables beside the water are provided near the old bridge and at Sandspur Beach. Whether on land or water, please do not litter.

Concession Services

Concession services within the park are provided by the Bahia Honda Division of Coral Reef Park Company, Inc. The concession offers a variety of activities designed to make your visit to Bahia Honda State Park both enjoyable and memorable. Snorkeling tours allow the young and old alike to experience the breathtaking beauty of Looe Key National Marine Sanctuary. The concession also offers self-guided kayak tours that make it easy for one or two paddlers to explore the Bahia Honda shoreline. And of course, if you'd rather just take it easy, rent a beach chair and relax in the warm tropical breezes along one of the best beaches in the Florida Keys. The Concession building is open 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily.
